

High Expectations

Tim Tefs, Owner of Buffalo Wings & Rings, High Street Center in Crescent Springs KY

Tim Tefs has always had a knack for success. As the Regional Development Director for Buffalo Wings & Rings in Kentucky and Tennessee, his research led him to Crescent Springs, KY as the next lucrative location for a new BW&R restaurant. Tim explains why he chose Toe-bben's High Street Center over others.

"The street visibility, mix of retail and rooftops, and local traffic counts are all very good," Tim states, "plus Toe-bben's redesign of the building is extremely attractive. With our plans for a fresh new look, a bigger bar with seating area, and zero trans fats menu, it will be a great match of interior and exterior features."

Tim also chose the Toe-bben Company because he had worked with them before. "They make you feel like they care about what's going on," he says.

"Toe-bben operates as a complete construction package and they involve you through the whole process. They're also easy to work with and competitive."

And how does Tim think his new restaurant will do when it opens at the end of May? "We expect to be busy right away," he says with a smile, "this is definitely an above average location."
